The two most satisfying conclusions drawn following my attendance at the February 1977 Trends and Highlights are:

- A. Being removed from the familiar surroundings of the Office of Communications for several days and made aware of the refreshing atmosphere and ideas of the whole of the Directorate was a very valuable experience.
- B. Contacts made on all levels of the Directorate should be a great aid in establishing an on-going rapport between personnel of the individual Offices, especially in the case of newer and mid-career employees.

Thank you again for a fine presentation and I am looking forward to attending the October running of CIA Today and Tomorrow.
